

Lauri Wilson - Glass

Artist's Statement/Biography:

Prairies textured with grasses, fields pinstriped by rows of corn, silhouettes of burly oaks, the bluff line and how it meets the sky.... These are things that inspire my work. I have been reinterpreting these elements in a minimalist way, reducing how I portray their color, line, and texture. I enjoy the challenge of working with glass and light as my medium, it is both technically challenging and uniquely beautiful. Glass as a medium has its limitations and I enjoy working within those constraints. Part of my process requires mechanical precision and part of it involves spontaneity. When creating new work, I am simultaneously thinking of both the design and the glass as well as how they will come together successfully. This harmony is struck when a piece comes out of the kiln that is both visually balanced in design and technically mastered in material.

Description of Art Produced: Kiln formed glass art.
